UNIVERSITAS ANDALAS

Meet The Rector

Welcome to Universitas Andalas

I would like to warmly welcome you all to Universitas Andalas, the first university in Indonesia outside Java island. Since our establishment in 1956, we continuously provide excellent education and contextual researches. Our lecturers and students are encouraged to grow together with the people around us as a global community with unique cultural values.

Universitas Andalas has several campuses scattered all over West Sumatra to provide equal and contextual education for the right knowledge and practices. The main campus is located on the top of Limau Manis hill on which you can watch over Padang city and enjoy the sun set at the horizon of Padang beach in a nice afternoon. Complementary to the view, you will be surrounded by a mindfully green and clean environment that help you to fully concentrate on your study.

There are numerous researches which may meet your academic interest. Supporting your study, there is a five stories library with huge collections which you can access in building your knowledges and research projects. As international students, you should not worry at all about living away from home as we are naturally and culturally friendly companions to our guests. Universitas Andalas is equipped with representative student dormitories where you can stay in or you can stay off-campus where you can easily find private accommodations around campus.

West Sumatra is now growing to be world tourist destination with many interesting cultural events, attractions and wonderful landscape that you can enjoy during your leisure time between classes. You can climb ancient volcanoes, enjoy the national geoparks, explore the calming rivers and forest, sail the peaceful ocean, dive to enjoy the beautiful underwater or escape into wonderful islands to know more about West Sumatra and find your true self. I, representing all the academic community of Universitas Andalas, am pleased to embrace you as one of our family and help you gain the best of your goals here.

Prof. Dr. Yuliandri, S.H., M.H

History of Andalas University

Universitas Andalas is the fourth oldest university in Indonesia and now a home for nearly 29,000 students. The university was established in 1956 following the Decree of Minister of Education and Culture No. 80016/Kab; 23 December 1955. Officially, the university was launched on 13 September 1956 by its four founding fathers, together with the Dr. Mohammad Hatta (Indonesia's first Vice President) and Sarino Mangoenpranoto (the Minister of Education and Culture). Initially, the university had five faculties spread at different cities: Payakumbuh (Faculty of Agriculture), Bukittinggi (Faculty of Medicine and Faculty of Natural Science), Padang (Faculty of Law), Batusangkar (Faculty of Teaching and Education). In 1961, a new faculty was established (Faculty of Economics), followed by the establishment of Faculty of Animal Husbandry in 1963. In 1965, Faculty of Teaching and Education was separated from Universitas Andalas and became independent Institute of Teaching and Education of Padang (IKIP) which eventually was converted into Universitas Negeri Padang (UNP) in 1999. In total, Universitas Andalas currently has 15 faculties, included Humanities, Engineering, Social and Politics, Pharmacy, Agricultural Technology, and Public Health and Postgraduate Program.

Where we are

Universitas Andalas is located in Padang, the capital of West Sumatera province which is famous for its natural beauty and its traditional Minangkabau culture. Various destinations and attractions can be found in West Sumatera including beaches, lake tours, hills, canyon, waterfall, culinary tours. Just off the coast of Padang, you will not only come across the well-known Mentawai islands but also hundreds of small islands with pristine beaches and palm trees. Moreover, Puncak Lawang Area located in District of Agam is a must visit for paragliding and its stunning view where you can see Maninjau Lake from the 1.210 meter above sea level. In addition, to its natural beauty, traditional house of called 'rumah gadang' (big house) reflect Minangkabau people and has become the symbol of West Sumatera and Minangkabau Culture and values.

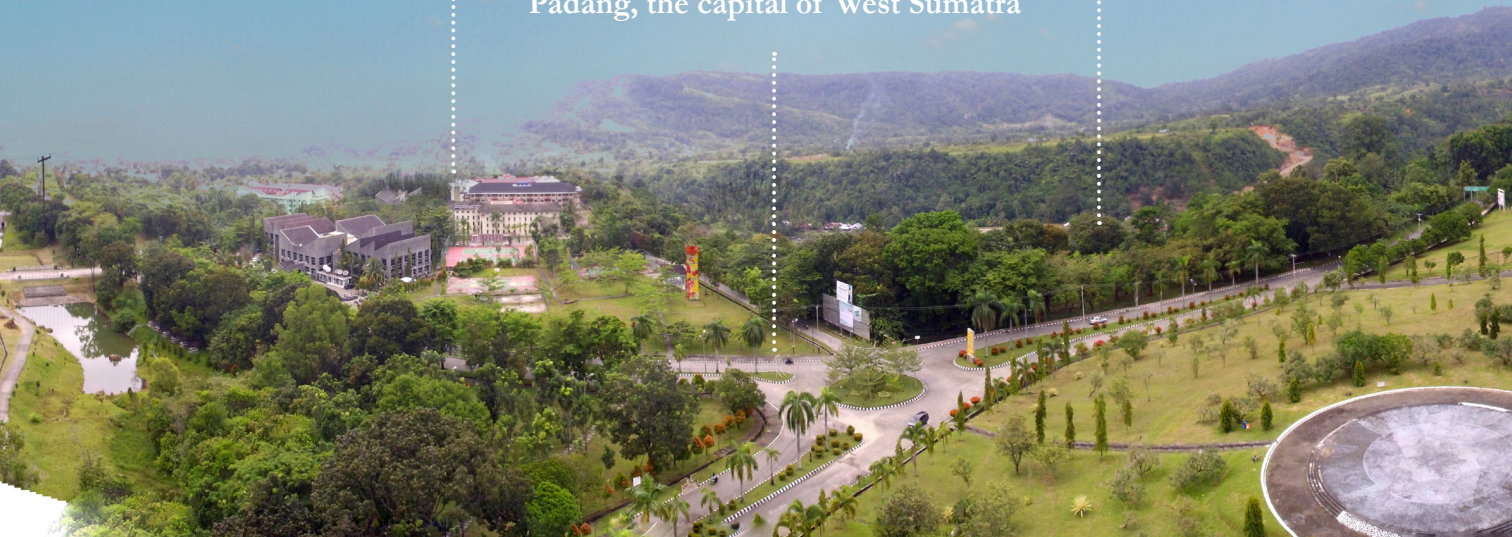

Nagari Tuo Pariangan is the oldest Minangkabau traditional village located 90 km from Universitas Andalas. Its landscape beauty and traditional Minangkabau culture offer an enjoyable experience for cultural tourism lovers.
